About the Program

The Kooser Program was developed by Cathy Kooser, a licensed independent social worker, who has a severe sensor neural hearing loss. Cathy obtained her bachelor’s degree in social work in 1998 from Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio and her master’s degree in social work in 2004 from the University of Cincinnati.

The facilitators of The Kooser Program are certified and taught by Cathy Kooser to ensure and maintain the integrity of the Program.

“Although hearing loss plays a role in shaping and defining those of us who experience it, we cannot let it stop us from becoming who we are meant to be, nor from living the lives we are meant to live!” Cathy Kooser

Vocational Rehabilitation

The primary goal of the program is to provide appropriate information and strategies to persons with hearing loss to help them cope more effectively with everyday life. The program seeks to improve the quality of life of people with hearing loss and their families by empowerment through education and support.

This is achieved by increasing awareness of the hidden impact of hearing loss and how to live with it in a positive and effective manner. Many topics are taught including:

- Effective communication strategies
- How to be assertive
- Hearing loss in the workplace

Research supports the combination of audio rehabilitation used in conjunction with appropriate amplification can significantly improve a consumer’s quality of life, thereby increasing their success using hearing instruments.
